Telemetry

Saturday, October 14 • 11 am - noon Pickard Park Shelter

Calling all wildlife biologist kids! Telemetry is the process of recording and transmitting information from specific equipment.

Join a Warren County Conservation Naturalist and learn about how scientists use telemetry equipment to track and record information about animals like wolves! Your child will get a chance to handle the equipment and gain knowledge about what all wildlife biologists can learn from the movements of groups of animals.

Fun for children in grades 3rd-5th! This activity hosted by Indianola Parks & Recreation is FREE, but spots are limited.

Please register by Thursday, October 12th by calling Warren County Conservation at (515) 961-6169 or visit www.warrencb.org/events.
